What's the Role All About?

This isn't just a job—it's a chance to lead change from the frontlines.

As a Block Coordinator with the Building Opportunities for Lives and Dignities (BOLD) Project, you will:

- Work with 36 villages across Kolebira (Simdega) and Rania (Khunti) to prevent gender-based violence and support survivors.

- Lead field teams, energize community facilitators, and strengthen Gram Sabhas and local institutions.

- Bring data to life—track progress, solve problems, and co-create solutions with the community.

- Be a mentor—conduct training, facilitate meetings, and inspire local youth and women's groups.

- Travel deep into rural Jharkhand, connect with real stories, and help shape a just, inclusive future.

- You'll work closely with a team committed to dignity, inclusion, and survivor-led social change.

If you're someone who dreams of creating impact where it matters most, this is your moment.

Who Can Apply?

We're looking for young changemakers ready to roll up their sleeves and work at the grassroots.

- Master's Degree? Yes! In Social Work, Gender Studies, Rural Development, or related fields.

- Fresh out of college from a top institute? Don't worry—your passion matters more than years. Apply!

- Digitally Sharp? Great! We value Excel skills, Google tools, and a flair for community-friendly reporting.

- Languages? Hindi and English are a must; tribal languages like Mundari, Kurukh, or Kharia are a big plus.

- Willing to travel and live in tribal areas? That's the spirit we love! Two-wheeler riders get brownie points.

- Age limit: 35 years or below as of 01 May 2025.
